

Carmagen Centralizes Engineering Operations with MISTRAS' Teams in Houston, Texas - USA

As many of you are aware, Carmagen Engineering, Inc. was acquired by MISTRAS in 2012. We are pleased to announce that effective immediately, our parent company MISTRAS has centralized its North American engineering operations to be based out of its newly-formed Engineering Services Center of Excellence (COE) in Houston, TX – USA.

As part of the changes, Carmagen now operates as MISTRAS Engineering Services.

In addition to its consulting and engineering services, MISTRAS serves customers around the world with field and laboratory inspections, maintenance and light mechanical services, inspection products, asset monitoring, and inspection data management software.

This change does not adversely affect your business in any way. All Carmagen engineering services will continue to be offered. The only change that will affect you will be to your points of contact.

###